

WORKER RIGHTS COMPLAINT REPORT INSTRUCTIONS

Please tear off this page and keep for your records.

This worker rights complaint report is your request that the Department of Labor and Industries (L&I) conduct an investigation of general worker rights violations by an employer, or to initiate an investigation into a wage-related violation that affects one or more employee(s) e.g., a company-wide overtime audit. Complaints are processed by the Industrial Relation Agent who investigates employers in the county in which the employer is located. Industrial Relations agents will review each complaint to determine whether it falls within the department's jurisdiction. There is no specific time frame for filing most complaints. However, complaints involving final wages due must be filed within 60 days of the last date worked.

Fill in the form completely to provide L&I with the information necessary to support the complaint. If necessary, use a separate sheet of paper.

Generally, complaint investigations take between 45 to 60 days to resolve. Prevailing wage investigations generally take 180 days. In either case, complex complaints may take longer. You will be notified when the employer is contacted or when a final determination has been made. If the complaint is wage related and we are unable to obtain voluntary payment, or we are unable to substantiate the validity of the complaint, you may be advised to take legal action through Small Claims Court or a private counsel. NOTE: There is no guarantee of collection.

Do not fill out this form if the following applies to you:
(Before you file, please review form # F700-116-000 – Claimant Questionnaire)

1. The complaint is against:
  - A person you intend to sue in court.
  - A business in which you are a partner or had a financial interest.
  - A family member.
2. Your complaint is for less than 8 hours worked based on minimum wage.
3. For complaints for final wages due, if it has been more than 60 days since the last date you worked for your former employer.

Exceptions:

  - Former employees of registered Farm Labor Contractors may file a complaint if it has been within three years of the violation.
  - Workers owed prevailing wages generally must file a complaint within 30 days of the project's acceptance date by the public agency.
4. Your complaint is for more than $4,000, except complaints for unpaid prevailing wages. You should seek legal counsel through a private attorney.
5. You are self-employed.
6. The complaint represents unpaid vacation or sick leave, holiday pay, severance pay or bonuses.
7. Complaints for unpaid commissions are accepted only if a minimum wage violation has taken place and the claimant has the necessary documentation to substantiate the complaint.
8. The complaint is based on wages earned outside of the state of Washington. You may wish to contact the Department of Labor for the state where you performed the work, to inquire about your rights.
9. Your former employer has filed bankruptcy. If this is the case, you should file a "Proof of Claim" form with the U.S. Bankruptcy Court.
10. If you have property, equipment or other materials belonging to the employer.

You may wish to seek legal advice if your complaint involves the items listed above.
